The American Action Forum (@AAF) today released research examining how expediting the National Environmental Policy Act review process would allow additional investment in infrastructure from the private sector. The research examines what is preventing private sector involvement and how that can change.

Click here to read the research.