

The Daily Dish

Trade and Taiwan

DOUGLAS HOLTZ-EAKIN | JUNE 9, 2022

Taiwan is an important geopolitical relationship for the United States, and a significant trading partner. In 2020, Taiwan was America's ninth-largest trading partner and a top international supplier of semiconductors. Accordingly, one would think that the natural step would be to establish a bilateral trade agreement between the United States and Taiwan to lower barriers to trade and improve market access.