

Events

New Greenhouse Gas Regulations: What Do They Mean for Consumers, Industry, and Stakeholders?

SEPTEMBER 17, 2014
12:00 PM

The American Action Forum and R Street Institute will host a discussion on the Environmental Protection Agency's (EPA) new proposal to reduce greenhouse gas emissions from existing facilities across the electricity sector. Our event will focus on the impacts of the EPA's regulations on consumers, states, industry, and other stakeholders. The event will feature keynote remarks by Council of Economic Advisors Chairman Jason Furman.

When:

Wednesday, September 17, 2014 at 12:00 PM

Where:

Dirksen Senate Office Building, Room G11

Keynote:

CEA Chairman Jason Furman

Panelists:

Douglas Holtz-Eakin, President, American Action Forum

Lori Sanders, Outreach Director & Senior Fellow, R Street Institute

Adele Morris, Policy Director for the Climate and Energy Economics Projects, Brookings

Moderator:

Erica Martinson, Energy & Environment Reporter, POLITICO