AAF Analysis Finds Trump Administration Has Significantly Slowed Regulatory Actions

PATRICK HEFFLINGER | JUNE 6, 2017

Today the American Action Forum (@AAF) released a new analysis examining the historic nature of the current regulatory slowdown. According to AAF analysis, since Trump took office, the White House has released only 8 percent of the historical volume of regulation and has only finalized $33 million in costs, compared to an average of $26 billion per year (from 2005 – 2017).
