AAF Examines Fate of Obama-Era Labor Regulations

PATRICK HEFFLINGER | SEPTEMBER 21, 2017

The American Action Forum (@AAF) released a new analysis examining the fate of Obama-era labor regulations. The analysis finds, however, that many of President Obama's labor regulations face an uncertain future. The analysis concludes that unilaterally enacting regulations may not be the best move and future administrations, the current one included, should work with Congress to enact bills which increase economic growth, spur job creation and raise wages.
