AAF Research Examines the Growth Proposition of the American Jobs Plan

ANDREW EVANS | APRIL 27, 2021

In tomorrow's address to Congress, President Biden will tout his American Jobs Plan as well as explain his new American Families Plan. Biden campaigned on these proposals, and the American Action Forum recently released research modeling the economic impact of his campaign's plan. While the president claims that new infrastructure spending in the American Jobs Plan will spur the economy, this research indicates that the damage from new taxes will likely outweigh the benefits of the plan's new infrastructure, even under the most favorable conditions.
