What are the Implications of the Section 301 Tariffs?

PATRICK HEFFLINGER | APRIL 5, 2018

Today the American Action Forum released an analysis examining the implications of President Trump's Section 301 tariffs. The analysis shows how the tariffs are directed at industries heavily reliant on intellectual property. AAF's Jacqueline Varas found that these tariffs will reduce overall U.S.-China trade, increase costs for U.S. producers and consumers by up to $11.5 billion, or, most likely, result in a combination of both.
