Tariffs on Chinese and Mexican Imports Could Cost Consumers $250 Billion

JACQUELINE VARAS | MARCH 7, 2016

Presidential Candidate Donald Trump has been exceedingly critical of U.S. trade policy. He is particularly vocal about trade with China and Mexico, which together make up nearly one-third of all U.S. trade (31.3 percent). Trump claimed that, “If you look at China, and you look at Japan, and if you look at Mexico ... they’re killing us.”
