The Future of America's Entitlements: What You Need to Know About the Medicare Trustees Report

DOUGLAS HOLTZ-EAKIN, JONATHAN KEISLING, GORDON GRAY | JULY 23, 2015

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

The Medicare Trustees issued their annual report detailing the financial state of America's entitlement programs. The report echoed past conclusions: Medicare and Social Security are still going bankrupt.

At its current pace, Medicare will be bankrupt in 2030 and Social Security will go bankrupt in 2034 (a year later than last year's projection).

Despite what many will herald as good news for Medicare, a deeper look at the data proves just how broken our current entitlement programs are. An American Action Forum analysis of the data found other startling statistics, including:

- Medicare's Annual Cash Shortfall in 2014 was $308.9 billion
- Payroll taxes would have to increase 18% to pay for Medicare Part A just this year
- Over the next 75 years, Social Security will owe nearly $11 trillion more than it is projected to take in

What You Need to Know About the Medicare Trustees Report includes one-pagers and relevant statistics on:

- The solvency of Medicare
- President Obama's stewardship of Medicare
- The solvency of the Social Security Trust Fund
- The solvency of the Social Security Disability Insurance (DI) program
- The solvency of the Social Security Old-age and Survivors Insurance (OASI) Program
