AAF has catalogued regulations according to their codification in the Code of Federal Regulations (CFR). The CFR is organized into 50 titles, with each title corresponding to an industry or part of government. This snapshot will help to determine which sectors of the economy receive the highest number of regulatory actions.

The Coast Guard published a proposal to increase the liability for certain vessels and facilities under the Oil Pollution Act. The measure estimates 10-year present value costs of $133.5 million. Annualized costs are just $14.3 million. These costs stem partly from higher insurance premiums in the area.

The Food Safety and Inspection Service finalized a rule on poultry slaughter. The measure allows flexibility for businesses operating under either the “New Poultry Inspection System” or the existing requirements. The rule anticipates annual costs of $25 million, compared to $32 million in benefits. The agency notes, “This final rule is a result of the Agency’s 2011 regulatory review efforts conducted under Executive Order 13563 on Improving Regulation and Regulatory Review.” However, the proposed rule was first devised in 2008, according to administration records.
